In order to provide you with access to certain services or data within our Sites, we may require that you provide certain personal information, which may include, but is not limited to the examples listed below, "Personal Information". Pitney Bowes also collects non-personal information that does not, on its own, identify an individual person. When non-personal information is combined with other information so that it does identify an individual person, we treat that combination as Personal Information.

The following are examples of the types of information that is considered Personal Information and that may be collected directly from you (or someone acting on your behalf):

- Username, password, and other information used in combination to verify identity

- Geolocation, demographic, shipping/receiving, billing, and other information related to the purchase or delivery of Pitney Bowes products and services or services you access through the Sites
- Any other personal information or characteristics about an individual that identifies such individual alone or that, if used in combination with one of the above or with other non-personally identifiable information, allows someone to identify such individual, such as date or place of birth, geographic data, or photographic images

By accessing and utilizing our Sites, you consent to the collection, use, disclosure, storage, and processing of Personal Information in accordance with this Privacy Statement. Please note, by law you are not required to provide us with your Personal Information. By electing to not share your Personal Information with us, you may be unable to take advantage of our Sites and we may be unable to provide you with all of the functionality we offer through our Sites.

2. Collecting Other Information

Pitney Bowes Sites may use several automated data collection tools and techniques including cookies, clickstream, and web beacons.

Cookies

Some of our Sites use cookies, which are a small amount of data (often including a unique identifier), which is sent to your browser from a website and stored on your computer's hard drive. We may use cookies so that we can better serve visitors on our Sites, understand usage, and improve the content and offerings on our Sites. Cookies may be placed by us or by our third party service providers.

We, or our service providers, may: (1) use cookies to collect aggregate information about website users on an anonymous basis or (2) share aggregate demographic and usage information with our prospective and actual business partners, advertisers, and other third parties for any business purpose.

If you prefer not to have cookies, most web browsers include an option that allows you to not accept them. However, without cookies you may be unable to take full advantage of all of our Site features and some portions of our Sites may not function properly for you. To view a detailed list of the cookies we use on our website, please refer to our cookie list

Clickstream

We may collect information about the "clickstream" of our customers during their visit to our Sites. This clickstream data contains the pages the visitors came from, the navigational paths they took, and the areas of the Site they visited. From time to time we track such information inside and outside of our Sites. Additionally, we may track and match clickstream data with Personal Information you provide to us in order to deliver content and other offerings - i.e., products and services that might improve your customer experience. We may also share clickstream data with third parties in an aggregate or otherwise anonymous format.

Cross Device

We participate in the Adobe Experience Cloud Device Co-op to better understand how you use our website and applications across various devices so we can deliver tailored promotions. Click here <https://cross-device-privacy.adobe.com> to learn more.

Web Beacon

Certain email communications you receive from us may contain "web beacons." Web beacons consist of a line of code on our Sites that delivers a small graphic image. The web beacon may not be visible as it is a 1x1 pixel that is often designed to blend into the background of a web page. Web beacons allow us to obtain information such as the IP address of the computer that downloaded the page on which the web beacon appears, the URL of the page on which the web beacon appears, the time the page containing the web beacon was viewed, the browser type used to view the page and the information in cookies. We use web beacons for activities such as monitoring the effectiveness of the headlines in our emails or the ad banners.

IP Address

Your Internet Protocol ("IP") address is a numerical label assigned to each device (e.g., computer, printer, mobile device, or server) and is usually associated with the place from which you enter the internet. It is how devices find each other on a network. We may use your IP address to help diagnose problems with our servers, gather broad demographic information, gather geographic data, and administer our Sites.

Do Not Track Requests

We do not act on, alter, or change our Site behavior upon receiving Do Not Track requests from your browser.

3. Using and Retaining Personal Information

Personal Information we collect through our Sites may be used to provide information regarding our products and services, or for marketing and promotions we believe you may find of interest. 1. When we have a good faith belief it is required by law or to otherwise cooperate with law enforcement activity;

2. When we have a good faith belief it is necessary to protect our rights or property from fraudulent, abusive, or unlawful activity; or
3. In the event of a proposed or actual merger, acquisition, liquidation, dissolution or sale of assets.

In these circumstances, your consent will not be required, but we will attempt to notify you, to the extent the law requires.

Depending upon local law, you may either opt-in or opt-out of having your Personal Information shared for marketing or other purposes.
