Shifting to digital has never been more important.

Transform your inbound document and data workflows to support the wider digitisation, automation and simplification of complex business mail processes.

Pitney Bowes' Inbound Document and Data Workflow solution complements existing systems and software, integrating seamlessly with existing technology to support the better handling, capture, digitisation and classification of inbound mail and data. We can ensure even high volumes of inbound communication are delivered quickly, safely and securely.

By simplifying your IT infrastructure and delivering intelligent automation, we'll help you transition to a more future proof operational model.

We can help:

- Simplify complex mail workflows
- Automate manual processes
- Drive greater agility, flexibility and efficiency.

Our solution is simple.
When it's sent to you, it's sorted by us.

Increase business-wide performance by digitising inbound communication

The simple step of transforming inbound document processes is a vital step towards addressing four strategic business challenges.

Help your business meet its strategic goals whilst connecting, digitising and accelerating your business mail processes.

Leverage intelligent automation with enterprise sophistication to be more digital, connected and efficient.

Digital transformation. Sorted by us.

Digitise, connect and accelerate processes to drive operational excellence across lines of business. Support your digital transformation journey while delivering wider value to the business and supporting total compliance.

We can help your business become paper-lite, shifting to digital processes for Inbound mail and data and improving insights and analysis to support greater data-driven decision making.

Accelerate your digital journey

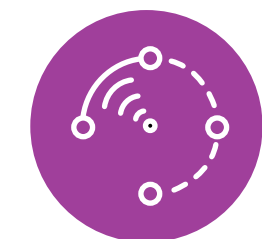

Many businesses know they need to begin or accelerate their digital journey but are uncertain of where best to start. Pitney Bowes are experts at transforming your mail processes and workflows and can help get you started.

Our seamless Inbound solutions are designed to make your digital transformation journey easy, fast and simple.

Value generation. Sorted by us.

Because we can drive greater digital transformation with the intelligent automation of mail processes, we can help give you a competitive advantage.

Create capacity and innovate for growth

By reducing labour-intensive processes, we can free your business to generate revenue and growth through innovation, boosting productivity and efficiency to optimise performance.

Real-time dashboards provide greater visibility into your entire Inbound mail operation and we'll help you bridge the growing customer expectation gap as technology evolves at pace. We can make it easier to both maintain service level agreements and manage costs, so you're always in total control.

Regulatory compliance. Sorted by us.

We can support greater alignment across the regulatory compliance landscape, turning what is often a pain point for businesses into a strength and point of competitive advantage.

Reduce risks and support compliance demands

With data complexity and volume increasing exponentially, organisations face greater compliance challenges than ever before, with huge potential financial risks. With increased volume, businesses can struggle to effectively manage things like applications, personal customer data, legal documents and more. This results in delays and slower processes, delivery and actioning of business-critical functions.

Because we automate key processes intelligently, we provide total visibility into all inbound physical mail and data sharing, ensuring faster, more seamless operations. And because you have insight into every document, the business has a complete, reliable audit trail so you can increase compliance while balancing customer service requirements.

Operational excellence. Sorted by us.

We can empower your organisation to be even faster, more effective and efficient, maximising the value of your existing resources while delivering increased agility at lower cost.

Eliminate bottlenecks and increase productivity

We can ensure more seamless operations by enabling inbound mail and data to be delivered much more quickly and safely. This means you can address customer enquiries, act on business-critical communications, invoices and confidential applications faster than ever before.

We'll deliver more robust operational resilience too, balancing capability, capacity and compliance. Our solution can improve staff productivity, allowing your business to scale more effortlessly. And by reducing the amount of paper, ink and power you use, we can help align your processes with critical environmental and sustainability targets too.
