

Shipping API—Payments

Maximize your working capital.

Simplify your USPS® shipping payments and increase profitability.

When you use the Pitney Bowes Shipping API, you can take advantage of flexible shipping payment options that can benefit you and your clients. Choose to pay the USPS yourself and pass those charges on to your clients, or have Pitney Bowes take on that risk. Create greater liquidity to invest in your core business operations by securing a more efficient shipping funding source. Choose the growth capital solution that flexes to your company's needs.

Pay Later Postage Solutions:

You receive a bill later: Our flexible revolving lines of credit are based on a client-defined number of days to pay, so you can match your payments to your cash flow cycle.

Or, your client receives a bill later:

Pitney Bowes finances the payments through our Vendor Shipping Finance Programs. Our revolving line of credit program provides shipping integrators with a unique way to provide their clients with access to capital that funds postage.

- Integrators pay less than credit card merchant fees and earn funds.
- Merchants have greater access to flexible payment terms and funds.

How you'll benefit from choosing the ideal Pitney Bowes pay later solution:

- 01. Your cash won't be tied up in paying for postage, which frees it up for other investments.
- 02. Get more flexibility and improve your business profitability by matching your expenses with your cash flow. Enjoy flexible payment terms with up to 57 days to pay.
- 03. Earn postage credits* to offset your shipping expenses.
- 04. Consolidate your shipping postage charges and supplies on one account.
- 05. Take advantage of competitive rates and terms.

*Postage credits are issued in the form of reward points for charges made to your account.
